Brightleaf Solutions Announces Alliance with AccuFile to Add Data Mining Software Services to Their Knowledge Management Suite

Combined offering will deliver progressive solutions to the legal industry

Brookline, MA – Brightleaf Solutions, Inc., a company that provides software and services to overcome the challenge of mining important information from structured, unstructured and text-based documents today announced their alliance with AccuFile, Inc., a market leader in records, library/resource center and information access management services and solutions.

Brightleaf's technology automates the entire process of extracting data from complex legal documents at exceptionally high quality, and importing the final output into new or existing contract and records management tools.

"By partnering with Brightleaf Solutions, AccuFile extends its reach into smart management of knowledge and information resources. We are known for our commitment to deliver innovative, valuable, client-focused solutions," said Nick Ypsilantis, Co-Founder, President and CEO of AccuFile.

"Clients are constantly looking to improve the way they organize, manage and access mission critical information. Our services and solutions are directly aimed at improving our clients' knowledge information access, processes and workflow, both timely and efficiently to assure increased value. Brightleaf's high quality, automated abstraction of metadata from contracts compliments AccuFile's records management service nicely. This technology adds an important component to contract management which is often a source of organization challenge."

"AccuFile is a leader in legal information services. And we are thrilled to announce this partnership." said Samir Bhatia, CEO of Brightleaf Solutions.

"Both companies have a successful track record and commitment to servicing the legal market, both outside firms and in-house legal departments. This alliance gives AccuFile a technology platform to provide their clients with abstraction of all the key terms, provisions and obligations that are often buried away within thousands of executed contracts. Making contract data easily searchable allows them to analyze and understand their vendor and customer behavior, make better decisions, uncover new or missed revenue opportunities and reduce risk by improving regulatory compliance."
